Would Not Quarrel Over Term 'Republic,' but Must Treat as Equal.

DEMAND SUBSTITUTE BILL

Would Welcome Settlement on Basis of Full and Free Self-Government.

genuine handshake, forgetting the past and letting bygones be bygones, no reasonable settlement will be rejected," today a man whose financial, personal and political position has a dominating influence with the Sinn Fein, said that "Ireland would welcome peace on a basis of full and free self-government, reland is ready to negotiate with Eng-land as to future relations, but refuses to negotiate under duress, although she is willing to do so as a free contracting

"Each brawler says the 'other must quit first, and neither trusts the other. And while the settlement thus hangs, perhaps nearer than ever before, both have to gird up their loins not only for a renewed effort but for a newer and more horrible strife."

Unless a settlement is made quickly there is every indication that the pres-ent lawlessness in Ireland will spread and intensify. While Lloyd George is warning that there is a "sterner time the Freeman's Journal, the most coming the Freeman's Journal, the most influential Sinn Fein organ, warns that "Ireland is prepared for war whether for five or fifty years or a century whichever it is to be. Let the English Cabinet answer, and quickly." It adds: "Tell the Prime Minister that there is not a man, woman or child in Ireland who has a scintilla of faith in the promises of English statesmen; tell him to deliver the goods and that Ireland then will be ready to negotiate."

As to methods of solving the Irish question, the Freeman's Journal says: "Nothing less than immediate production of a new dominion home rule bill on the fullest and most generous lines will suffice. It must be done speedily. The present bill must instantly be scraped and a truce must at once be called.

"The question of Ulster, or rather of the four counties which are dominated by the Orangemen," it says, "may be left to the country's option."

That the Sinn Fein probably will not quarrel over the term "republic" was indicated broadly to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD correspondent to-day; that they will be content with the substance without the shadow of the name, and the substance is that they will be able to have dealings as equals and to collect what promises England makes.

JAPAN INQUIRES AS TO CALIFORNIA FIRE

Tokio Wants Investigation, but Consul Knows No Plot.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27 .- The Japanese Foreign Office has requested an in vestigation of a fire which destroyed several Japanese business houses at Marysville, Cal., July 21. T. Ohta, Japanese Consul-General here, said to-day:

"I believe the Japanese Government's request for an investigation of the fire might have been prompted by reports that there was evidence of an anti-Japanese sentiment in Marysville. From all I can learn, the fire cannot be satributed to an anti-Japanese plot, and I so in-formed my Government. However, in keeping with my Government's request, I requested a full investigation by the Japanese Association of America."

The order for the investigation was received on the day of the fire. A wiresaid a despatch was received by a Japa-nese newspaper from its Japanese correspondent here stating "Japanese stores were burned at Marysville during an anti-Japanese demonstration."

a great demonstration on entering Adianople to-day. The city was slightly damaged by shellfire. By the Associated Press.

ATRENS, July 25 (delayed).—Greece's military position, her attitude toward Balkan affairs and her policy with regard to the new territories to be taken over by Greece were explained to the Associated Press by Nicholas Politis, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

"From a purely military viewpoint, we probably will be finished in Thrace this week," declared the Minister, "and in a few months we will begin demo-bilization of our army in Asia Minor. M. Politis said he believed it possible that the next great war would be caused by an attempt at Siav domination of Europe. "But," he added, "we trust to keep Greece out of any new wars in the Balkans. It is incorrect to say that Greece has made any treaty with the Jugoslavs or Rumanians to this end, though it appears the Rumanians, Jugoslavs and Czechs are signing agree-ments. There are those among us who expect new attacks from the Bulgars, but we trust this will not be the case."

CRUISING SEA-GOING MOTOR BOATS

TO BE SOLD AT FIXED PRICES BY THE UNITED STATES NAVY DESCRIPTION

Length, 110 feet; beam, 15 feet 434 inches; draft aft, 6 feet 3 inches; maximum speed, 18 knots powered with 3 Standard Marine gas engines. They are wooden-hull vessels with white oak frames and 13/4 inch and 2 inch yellow pine planking.

Submarine chasers make excellent yachts and fishing boats and are suitable without conversion for a number of commercial purposes.

Their graceful lines, good speed and long cruising radius make their conversion into yachts entirely successful.

Their staunch construction and fine seagoing qualities make them very well suited for fishing boats for deep-sea work and for a number of other useful commercial purposes. They can be readily converted into seiners, trawlers and cargo boats. With very slight changes they will render fine service as cannery tenders.

These sub-chasers will also make excellent fire boats, pilot boats, motor tow-boats, marine insurance patrol boats, and dispatch boats.

A number have already been sold for use as yachts, fishing boats, fire boats and pilot

One of the best Naval architects in the country has prepared plans for their con-version into yachts and fishing boats, and these plans will be furnished free to all purchasers.

Many of these boats crossed the Atlantic during the war, demonstrating the efficiency and dependability of their power plants as well as attesting their staunch construction and excellent sea-going qualities. They represent an achievement in marine construction as notable as the development of the Liberty engine.

They were built to hunt submarines and for patrol duty during the war. They are no longer required by the NAVY for these purposes and for that reason are to be disposed of immediately. They have been appraised extremely low for quick sale. Prices range from $5,000 to $16,000 for boats that originally cost about $80,000

They can be bought for cash at a liberal discount or on the three-year deferred payment plan. No bids, no delay, no red tape. All boats to be sold at fixed prices; they are berthed at various Navy Yards ready for immediate delivery.

Write or telegraph now for illustrated catalogue of sale giving complete detailed description and photographs of these boats, together with prices, location, terms of sale and commercial purposes for which adapted. Address:
